

A personal choice

With hundreds of thousands of books available onsite, how do you make sure relevant books are shown to each recipient? This was a big challenge for The Book People. Using a product catalogue, data science and CRM data, the team run sophisticated segmentation to show the most relevant books to the right audience. As products are served live into the email at the moment of open, the pricing and stock levels update in real-time which means only products that are available to buy are featured in each email.

"Kickdynamic has become an integral part of our team, not only delivering huge efficiency benefits and thus supporting our internal processes, but also enabling the realisation and progression of our CRM strategy at pace, through the introduction of personalisation and relevant, tailored email content to our customers. The on boarding and support from day 1 has been fantastic and the incremental revenue that we have unlocked has unsurprisingly been very well received by all across the business."
